CITY AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT

could only be called on notice in writing, and stating expressly the business for the meeting, and for a moment he held the whiphand. However, the Republicans were strenuous, and, to the surprise of all the Democrats present, Fern proceeded with the meeting, although he could have declared that it was not legal. Probably he did not realize the advantage which he held.

After the meeting had proceeded a little further, it was discovered that McClellan's credentials were not in order, and immediately the Republicans had an added advantage over the Mayor, as he had no one in the Board who could put his motions.

Hustace's Farewell Address
At 11:55 a. m. Hustace called the meeting of the old Board of Supervisors to order again. He said:

"Again I wish to thank the members of the Board, the heads of departments, and all the employees for their good work. I think that we have made a success of County government, although it dies today, to be succeeded by a new form of government. Gentlemen, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Oahu has adjourned sine die."

At this point the band, which during the forenoon had been stationed in the hallway downstairs, played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Fern Is Introduced
Promptly at noon the new Supervisors were in their seats, and Mayor Fern was escorted to his place at the head of the table by Hustace, who made the following speech:

"As retiring chairman of the Board of Supervisors and at the beginning of the new government, I want to say about the old form of government that it has been a government by the people, which has held meetings four times a month, and which has attended promptly to the wants of the people, and not like the Territorial form of government, which makes the people wait for a couple of years if anything happens to have been forgotten by the Legislature. I want to say that County government has been a success, and I am proud to say that I have contributed toward making it a success. We have now taken one step further forward, and now we have City and County government. We should do all we can, every one of us, toward making this new government a success, and my advice to the members of the incoming Board is that they take their coats off and work for the best interests of the people. Gentlemen, I take pleasure in introducing to you J. J. Fern, Mayor of the City and County of Honolulu."

Fern Makes Address
Fern arose and read his inauguration speech, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Fern thereupon called attention to the fact that the first regular meeting of the Board would take place tomorrow. The rules of the old Board made the meeting hour 7:30 o'clock. The members of the Board had not expressed any desire for having a meeting at any other time, and he therefore announced that the first meeting would take place tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Quinn Wants Meeting Instantly
"I think that as we are here," said Quinn, "we might as well organize. As I understand it, there are no officers now, and the officers should qualify. We are ready to proceed to organize in order to save time, and I would ask you to call the Board to order for that purpose. I make that motion."

"The law says that a motion for a special meeting shall be put in writing," said McClellan.

Aylett asked what the Sheriff and other officers should do until they had qualified. He thought organization should be perfected, as otherwise the officers had no authority to act.

McClellan moved to call a special meeting and to put in writing that it was called merely for the purpose of approving the bonds of the officers.

"There is a motion before the house," said Aylett.

"There is no House," said McClellan. "I make my suggestion a motion."

Cox read the Municipal Act to show that if no action was taken there would be no officers until tomorrow night. "It is only fair and square that we proceed," he added.

The motion that organization be proceeded with was put and carried, only McClellan voting in the negative. The roll was then called, and the certificates of election of the members handed in.

"I hereby call a meeting to be held at once for the purpose of approving bonds," announced Fern, reading from a written motion filed with him.

"We can't approve the bonds until we take our oaths of office," said Cox.

"I suggest," said Quinn, "that we organize, but first we must have rules."

Quinn was informed that the oaths must be taken first, and stated that he had not been aware that this had not been done yet.

The Clerk announced that the oaths were in proper form. The same was the case with the bonds. Attention was called to the fact that McClellan's was not yet in proper form.

Republicans Produce Rules
Quinn moved to adopt certain rules which he produced. Aylett seconded this.

"Who makes the rules, the Board or one man?" asked Fern.

"The rules have been presented to the Board, and it can adopt them or not, as it pleases," said Aylett.

Fern called for the Sheriff's bond, but Cox said that the Board could not act on it before the Board had adopted rules.

"The Chairman insists on proceeding under the new rules," said Fern, "and we can get our new rules later."

Cox read passages from the Municipal Act at length. "The Board is a legislative body," he said. "It may adopt its rules."

Quinn renewed his motion to adopt rules and handed a draft of such to the Clerk for reading.

Cox quoted another bunch of law. Demand Made on Mayor

Attorney Watson and Secretary Rhodes got the ear of the Mayor for a moment, and Fern announced that the meeting had been called for the purpose of approving the bonds of the officers.

"I demand that you should put the question as duly seconded," said Kane, emphatically.

Fern called the question. Logan called for the reading of Quinn's rules, which was proceeded with.

Aylett moved that the rules be adopted. Kane seconded it.

McClellan said that the motion was out of order, as the meeting had been called for the express purpose only of approving bonds.

Appeal From Ruling
"I rise to a point of order. Mr. McClellan is not a member of the Board. He has not filed his credentials."

Fern said the Chair would proceed with the approval of the Sheriff's bond.

"There is a motion before the Board," said Quinn.

"I overrule the motion," said Fern. "I respectfully appeal from the ruling of the Chair," said Logan.

McClellan asked the Board, as a matter of courtesy, that an adjournment be taken to allow him to get his bond. He met a stony silence.

Chair Again Challenged
Fern said that as a matter of courtesy there should be a recess. He asked if there were any objection to a recess and was met by silence. He declared a 15-minute recess, whereupon Aylett said that the motion should be put first.

Cox said that Logan's appeal should be voted on.

"I made a motion for a recess," said Fern. "That should come first."

"The Chair has no right to make a motion," announced Aylett.

The Clerk stated that it was his duty to put the question on Logan's appeal from the decision of the Chair. Logan stated, however, that it was the duty of the Chair to put motions.

Cathcart also interfered and told Kalaokalani that he had no right to put the motion. After an interval Quinn rose to call the attention of the Mayor that there was a motion still before the Board.

Fern Is Overruled.
"The recess is now going on," stated the Mayor, who then left the room.

The Mayor called the meeting to order again at 1:25. McClellan's bond, approved, was read.

"The motion to adopt rules is out of order," said Fern.

McClellan began to read from the laws but he was interrupted by Logan who again appealed from the order of the Chair. The vote on the ruling of the Chair was 6 to 1 against Fern. The question of the rules of the Board again came up. McClellan again read from the laws showing that any business other than that for which the special meeting is called is illegal.

Aylett maintained that the Board was a legislative body after the roll was called.

"We have a right to demand these rules," said Aylett. "We can't go ahead without the rules."

McClellan again stated that the law stated that the first meeting of the Board should be tomorrow. The first Tuesday after the first Monday.

Cox appealed for justice.

Fern Refuses to Proceed.
"Members, I refuse to call the motion, because this meeting was only called to approve the bonds of the county officers," said Fern.

Logan said that Fern had gone too far to stop now.

Kane moved that a temporary chairman be appointed, naming Logan.

"As the Mayor has refused to put the motion, I appeal to the members of the Board," said Kane.

"Let us call the Sheriff's bond," said Fern. "If we do this I think everything will go all right."

Aylett said the Board could not go

McClellan said the matter of rules could be taken up tomorrow.

Want Temporary Chairman.
Quinn and Kane said that Fern was temporarily unable to put the motion and therefore a temporary chairman should be appointed, according to the law.

McClellan again insisted that this be a special meeting.

Quinn called for the vote on Logan for temporary chairman. Fern called him to order. McClellan called for the Sheriff's bond. Kane stated that he seconded Quinn's motion.

Quinn stated that the members refused to take any action on any other matter until the rules were adopted.

Logan reviewed the day's proceedings and stated that the Board, as a legislative body, had the right to do anything it pleased.

"I have refused this motion," said Fern.
